Whip Around Prompts - Reflection Tool

Have participants stand in a circle and pose a prompt. Give folks a minute to think about their answer and then start with one person and "whip" around in order so that each participant give a short answer to the prompt (you can also prompt for one-word answers with appropriate prompts)

Guidelines

- The answers must be short.
- Everyone should respond as quickly as possible.
- All answers are accepted.
- Everyone participates.
- No "editorial comments" about other people's statements (except when the teacher corrects blatant errors; otherwise, even the teacher should not comment).

Whip Around Prompts

- I now know that . . .
- I learned . . .
- I was reminded of . . .
- I was surprised to learn that . . .
- I feel (an emotional response is given) because I now know . . .
- This makes me conclude . . .
- I discovered that . . .
- I remember that . . .
- "Pass" with a return for an answer or comment.
- "Piggy-back" on someone else's comment (with an addition of my own). ● What words or phrases are coming to your mind after participating in this activity? ● One thing I'm taking away is…
- One thing I would like to tell someone else about this experience is…
- My favorite part of this experience was…
